The Graduates Speak . . .

Four years ago we stepped inside
The welcoming front door,
Although we barely realized
These years would mean much more
Than just an education

Or a job that must be done;
These years were packed with comedy,
Tears, laughter, and fun.

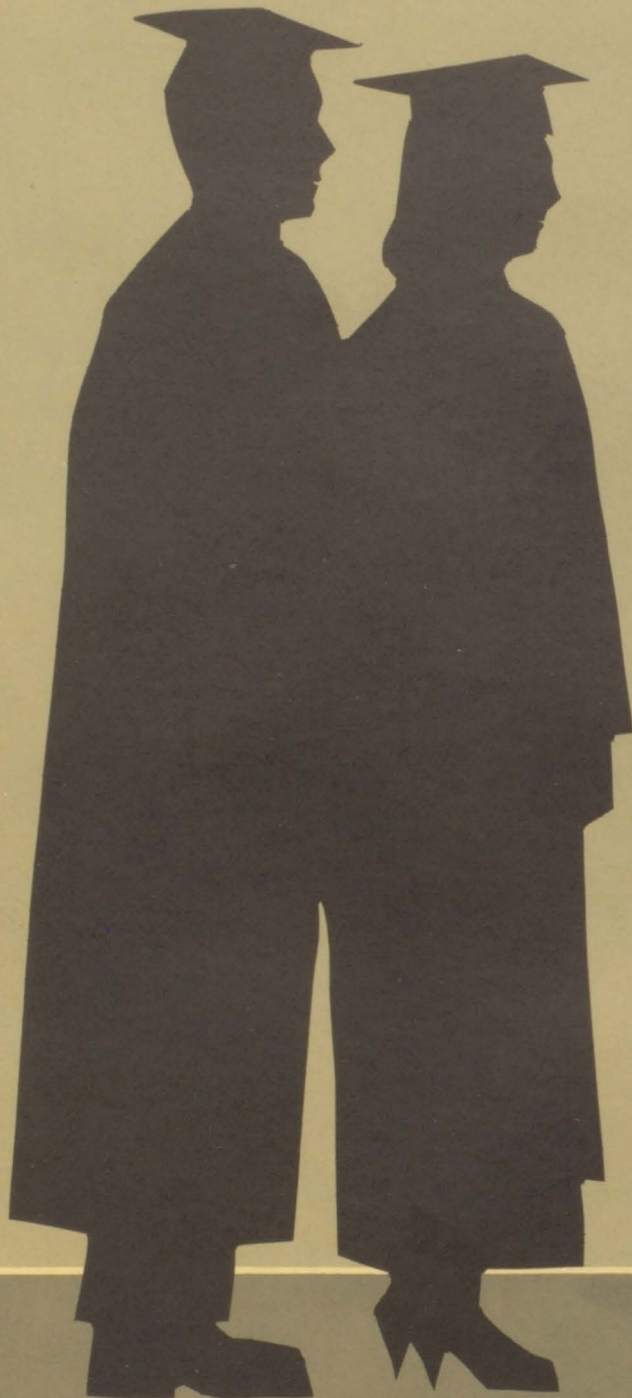

The world outlined a challenge
As freshmen we became,
And each new friend we met here
Was more than just a name.
The first year passed so quickly
(Oh . . . to live it again!)

The doors were opened a second time
And we were sophomores then.

We plunged into it thoughtlessly
Without looking at the past,
For yesterday meant little to us
Who were juniors at long last.
The class rings came and we were thrilled
With joy beyond compare.
A feeling of pride came over us,
A feeling we could share.

Our senior year was upon us
And we began to regret
We would have to leave this place
That we could never forget.
A diploma was our goal,
But we knew deep down inside
The years we spent in Batesville High
Were our greatest pride.

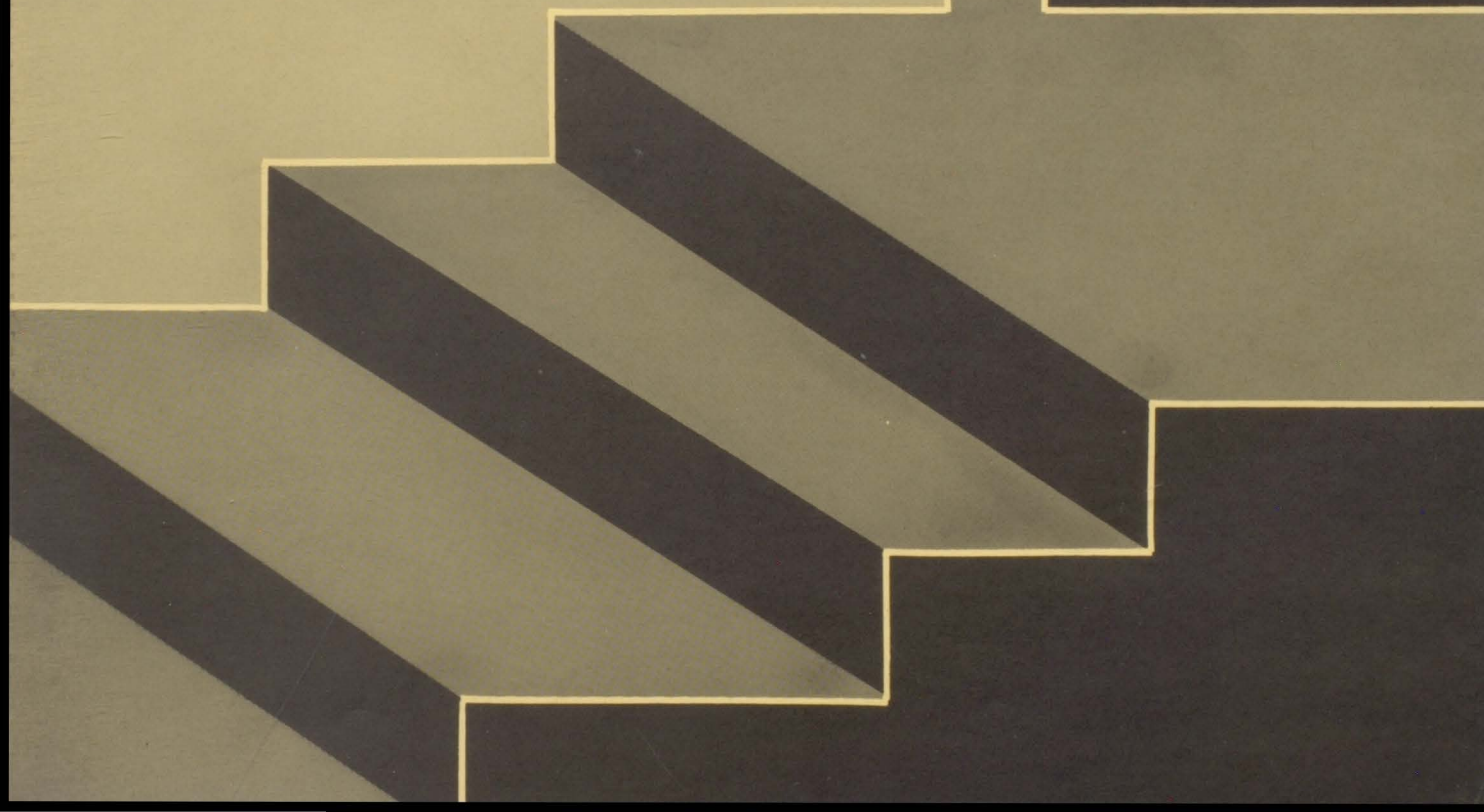

Sometimes we laughed,
Sometimes we cried,
But we never weakened beneath our load,
For there always seemed to be a helping hand along the road.
We'd like to express our gratitude to each of you who strives
To make our years at B.H.S.
The best years of our lives.

Dedication . . .

Each year new students enter our school; others must leave. Those who pass through the doors of B.H.S. to the life of adulthood are not forgotten. During their four years of high school, they have created traditions and left impressions for those who follow. The GRADUATES of 1962 will leave Batesville High to face a world of challenge. They will take their places as alumni, never again to study here. We dedicate this yearbook to all graduates of B.H.S. . . . who have built the traditions for which our school stands.

A Graduate's Glimpse of B. H. S.

A wide selection of academic and vocational courses offers many opportunities which challenge a student to work for a well-rounded education. The objective of Batesville High School is to create within each student a thorough understanding of his abilities and to encourage him to develop skill to think for himself. With a "oneness" in purposes and ideals, Batesville shows its students that worth-while things in life are acquired only through work. Education is the key to the future, and in Batesville the importance of a good education is realized.

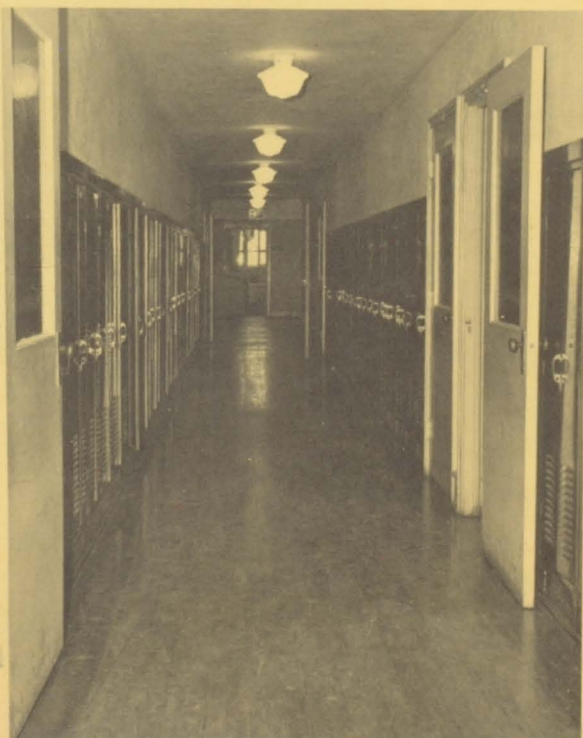

Crowded halls have become a tradition at Batesville High. Each year the hall situation seems to increase in seriousness. However, the students do not mind the "Battle of the Bulge." In the crowded halls, many friendships are begun. When the bell rings, everyone rushes through the narrow corridor, exchanging friendly words and edging ways to lockers. In three minutes' time, the hall again clears and the students are ready for their next classes. Teachers are usually not seen in the hallway during the rush. They manage to make their ventures through different channels.

In B.H.S., pep rallies are often held before a big game. In the rallies and at the games, the students show an abundance of zest. They repeat the familiar chants and cheer for victory with undying enthusiasm. All eyes are focused on the players and cheerleaders, and the cries of the cheering section are sincere: "Go! Fight! Win!"

Found Both Seriousness and Zest.

At the end of the day, Batesville High looks somewhat solemn and peaceful. The empty halls rest until the start of a new day. There is no remaining evidence that over three hundred students have traveled back and forth to classes through this hall. However, the students spend nine months out of the year in the familiar surroundings of Batesville High School.

In the library, students pour over reference paring research papers.

He Noticed a Friendly Atmosphere . . .

An important part of any school is the attitude of its students toward each other and their superiors. Batesville has an atmosphere of friendliness and sharing. It is evident in the library, where many students share information and references. One can find it in the informal gatherings on the school ground. It is the kind of relationship that builds a healthy environment for studying, learning, and sharing knowledge.

Seniors celebrate Pin Day and catch up on last minute assignments.

Judy and Sandy study for English at the dairy bar.

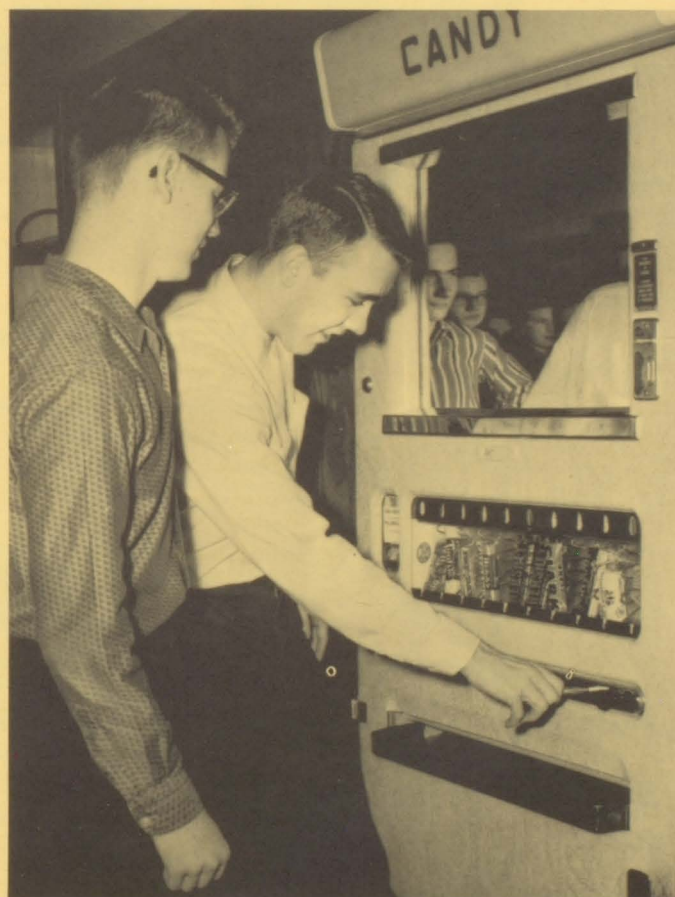

Linda Selke, Linda Gibson, and Ken Bohman share the latest in Chemistry and social affairs.

Students Shared Their Knowledge Here.

All work and no play can make a dull life, especially in high school. The extracurricular activities offer an outlet for energy and steam which builds up during the day at school. Even in the simplest form, retreat from the routine of doing lessons and studying gives a lift to the student. The candy machine, operated by the junior class, is never filled to capacity. Students are always eager for a quick snack. Everyone knows where to find refreshment at a basketball game. The music department is in charge of this service. A favorite spot for cokes and conversation is any one of the local restaurants or the Teen Center. Somehow, studying seems to go faster and smoother when a group gets together and works with a pencil in one hand and food in the other.

Popcorn poppers demonstrate "organized confusion."

Dan picks his favorite, while Martin waits his turn.

Typing students learn a skill which can be applied to future occupations. This course is practical for anyone who writes many compositions.

Dan G. learns a trade in D.C.E.

Through educational T.V., the students were able to see the historic flight into space of Col. John Glenn. They watched and listened as he progressed in the procedures of launching, orbiting, and returning to earth.

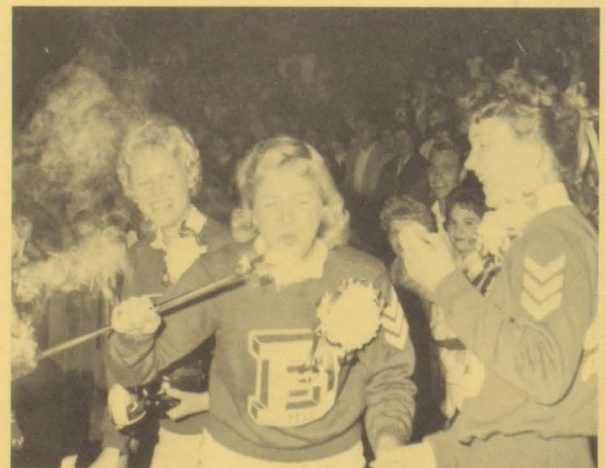

Many high schools offer courses which develop skills. Among these courses are typing, developmental reading, music, and art. The D.C.E. program gives boys a chance to work and learn a trade. Students take an active part in such courses, knowing that participation is the key to success.

Educational T.V. serves a useful purpose.

The Skills One Learns by Doing . . .

Playing a musical instrument requires skill and practice. Members of the high school band practice daily in preparation for marching and concert work. Here the band entertains at a basketball game.

Sondra tries to extinguish a fire baton used by majorette Roxy Lightner in a band drill.

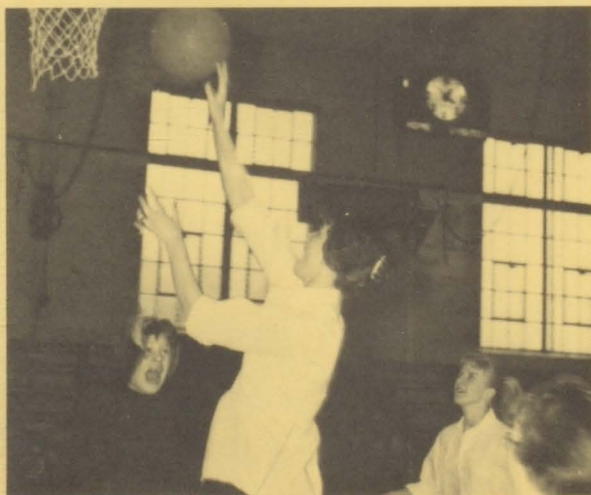

Jerry proves that practice makes an athlete successful.

Skill in a sport is not inherited, but is developed by exercise and co-ordination. An athlete knows the value of a skill. It may mean the difference between being a star or a spectator. In life the values of skills exist, making people successful or unsuccessful. Those who can fill a position and excel in their work are the ones who find the most satisfaction in life. The foundations for building skill, which begin in high school, are the roots of an individual's success in life.

Scholastic Banquet Honors Seventeen Students

The purpose of the annual Scholastic Award Banquet is to honor students who excel in their school work. It is sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Students are awarded bronze, silver, and gold medals, and honor plaques for the number of consecutive years they are on the honor roll.

Superintendent Swain presents Beverly Spencer and Gregg Borchelt with plaques for their four-year honor roll record.

Guest speaker for the banquet is Mr. James R. Mitchell of Purdue's School of Education.

Gregg Borchelt and Beverly Spencer hold their plaques awarded by the Jr. Chamber of Commerce for scholastic achievement and self-reliance. Susie Steinkamp stands at a podium after winning the American Legion Oratorical contest.

National Honor Society

members set scholastic examples for students. To be chosen a member of the National Honor Society is a challenge for many Batesville students. Candidates are selected on the basis of their scholastic ability and achievement throughout high school. The torch, emblem of the organization, symbolizes the light of learning. Although concerned with the scholastic aspects of school, members are leaders in every facet of extracurricular activities.

"Diet of Dates"

puts audience in stitches. One of the most delightful comedies presented by B.H.S. is the product of the Seniors of '62. "Diet of Dates" features an assortment of exotic characters along with a group of ordinary teenagers. When a royal prince comes to live in the United States with a typical American Family, a riotous affair begins as he becomes the most sought-after boy in town. Jealousy almost causes a strife, but in the end an unexpected visitor steals the heart of the prince. To add to the comedy's humor on the final night, in the middle of the play the local fire alarm roared for ten give the student cultural and educational knowledge and background. Periodical convocations, planned and presented by the Student Council, bring to the students a variety of shows featuring such performers as those skilled in music, acrobatics, and science, as well as collections of rare animals and other such oddities. These programs offer an interlude from the routine school day and a different atmosphere for learning.

Paul Green, Gary Tekulve, and Gregg Borchelt attend Boys' State.

Bev Spencer, Susie Steinkamp, and Mellonne Miller attend Girls' State.

Boys' and Girls' State Delegates

Each year three boys and three girls are selected by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Lions Club to attend Boys' and Girls' State, sponsored by the American Legion and its auxiliary. The purpose of Boys' and Girls' State is to develop in Indiana's youth the future's well-informed and well-educated citizens. Nine hundred boys and girls take part annually in the program in the state of Indiana. They are taught the rudiments of a functioning local, county, and state government, learn Indiana history, and take part in elections. Politicing and political party organization play a vital role in the elections.

"Holiday in Holland"

is 1962 Prom theme.

The Juniors, Seniors, faculty, and their guests enjoyed a four-hour visit to the colorful land of Holland when they attended this year's prom, "Holiday in Holland." The high school gymnasium was transformed into a beautiful fantasy of tulips and windmills for the occasion. Decorated by the Juniors, it was a mirage of pastel colors. Green and yellow streamers formed a false ceiling which rose to a point in the center. A wishing well stood in the middle of the floor and the stage was occupied by a windmill whose wheel actually turned. Several members of the Freshman class were servers, dressed in the typical attire of Dutch boys and girls.

Music was provided by the Fritz Turner combo. Highlighting the evening was the crowning of the Queen. Judy Robinson received the honors, and Chuck Albers was King. Judy's court consisted of Roxy Lightner, Barg Berg, Linda Selke, and Mellonne Miller. Post prom activities were sponsored by the local businessmen. From the prom, the group proceeded to the drive-in to see a movie and then to the Sherman House where a breakfast was served.

Junior class sponsors Jean Fisher and Don Carmichael deserve thanks and praise for their work and planning which made this prom a memorable one.

Baccalaureate services marked the beginning of the end for the Seniors of 1962. On Sunday, May 20, parents and friends of the Seniors assembled in Westwood auditorium. The graduates entered to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the high school band, and took their seats near the stage. They listened earnestly to the Baccalaureate message delivered by Rev. Charles Myers of the Methodist church.

Rev. Myers spoke to the Seniors of the values of education and religion in our lives. His sermon was entitled "What in Heaven's Name Are You Doing?" He stressed the importance of the Seniors' next steps in life and emphasized the need for individuals to serve others. His message was thought-provoking to both Seniors and guests.

Contributing to the baccalaureate service were the voices of the Chant Ensemble. They sang "Holy Lord God" and "O Sing Unto the Lord." For Senior Chant Ensemble members this was the last time to sing with the group.

Commencement . . . Finale of

Commencement marked the end of a successful four year's study at Batesville High School for the Seniors of 1962. On Friday night, May 25, they became the fifty-second class to graduate from B.H.S. The sixty-one graduates had completed all requirements for graduation and were now eligible to receive their diplomas. They entered the high school gymnasium wearing their blue and white robes and carrying red roses, and approached the stage. Across the stage was their motto, "Not at the Top, But Climbing," in letters of red and silver. Father Stephen Schneider gave the invocation and benediction. Beverly Spencer sang "I'll Walk With God." The Seniors' oration theme was Freedom. Charles Albers spoke on "Democracy and Freedom." He was followed by Mellonne Miller whose subject was "Privileges and Responsibilities," and James Stein who orated on "Vigilance--Our Heritage." Susie Steinkamp completed the oration with "The Price of Freedom." The class song, "Climb Every Mountain," was sung by the Seniors. Principal John Frushour presented the class and, after delivering a short message, declared them graduated from Batesville High School.

Seniors C. Albers, S. Steinkamp, J. Stein, and M. Miller speak to class and guests of the values of Freedom.

the School Year

Superintendent Charles Swain presented the diplomas of graduation to the Class of '62. He praised the class for its educational accomplishments. Mr. Swain also stressed that although high school learning had ended, the graduates should continue to learn throughout their lives.

After all diplomas had been presented, the graduates performed the final ritual of commencement: turning of the tassels. They sang the "Alma Mater" and marched out of the gym, while the high school band played "Pomp and Circumstance."

Bulldogs See Action

Bulldogs' Football Bounces to

The 1961 Varsity squad had a rough season, but under the direction of coach Baas and the co-captains Jerry Christopher and Chuck Albers, they proved that they could rally through the stiffest competition, although they didn't always make the winning score. These boys had integrity. When the chips were down, their spirits were high. They gave their opponents spark and action, as the spectators cheered them on to victory.

Opposition.

Jerry Christopher led the Bulldogs, rushing and scoring, and was the hub of the team, playing halfback. Chuck Albers was a strong defensive artist. Irvin Borchelt, a real spark plug, hustled in the center position. Barc Westerfeld built the morale of the entire team. Chuck Walke, line-man, kept everyone on the alert. These five Seniors led the team to the goalposts during the 1961 season.

emphasize team play and good sportsmanship. Football coaches Milt Baas and Dick Lemen know that training is the key to a winning team. Their work begins in August when the football team prepares for its coming season. They spend endless hours with the boys each morning and night teaching them plays, passes, techniques, and power-building routines which make a fearless and challenging team. They encourage the boys throughout the season and build up spirit for victories. During a game, the boys depend on the coaches to make quick decisions and to instruct them on what plays to use. The coaches must put the right boy in the right spot. One of the chief goals of a coach is not for touchdowns, but for good sportsmanship.

and Improve Season Record

The Bulldogs advanced from a 6 win--14 loss season to one of 9 wins and 13 losses. Four seniors contributed to the success of the team. Jerry Christopher was selected to the All-County Tourney team and to the E.I.A.C. team. He was leading scorer with a 17-point average. Also selected to the two all-star teams was Paul Meyer, leading rebounder. Paul played pivot and excelled as a jumper. Alvin Dickman, tallest member of the team, was a corner set shot artist. Chuck Walke served for three years as head manager for the Bulldogs, and did a fine job of keeping the records in order. These four players will be missed next year, but the upcoming players show promise for another good season.

In the locker room, Coach Wernke reviews the records, as the team takes a "breather."

The baseball team finished its season with a four win--seven loss record. Action was the key word for the boys, and most of the games were close ones. The expert pitching of Shane led the team to victory, but at times there was a lack of hitting power. With the loss of only two seniors, the team can expect to improve next year. Coach of the baseball team is Paul Wernke.

Golf Team

The golf team took on a new look this year: out of eight players, six were freshmen. These boys showed fine form as they won fifth place in the Hillcrest open tourney. Senior Barc Westerfeld played well, completing his final season of high school golf. The team can look forward to the future, while the freshmen gain experience during the next three years.

In order to be eligible for B-Men, boys must earn a letter in one of the high school's sports. B-Men is sponsored by Mr. Paul Wernke and Mr. Milton Baas. President Jerry Christopher has kept the organization buzzing with projects this year, including a hayride, Christmas dance, and picnic.

Science Club . . . encourages amateur scientists.

Because so much emphasis is being placed on science in this modern world, it is important that young people receive a wide background in this field. The Science Club provides an outlet for the scientific minds of B.H.S. Each member works on a research project and prepares it for the annual Science Fair, held in the spring. Mr. Baas and Mr. Lemen, sponsors, are always on hand to assist the enthusiastic members with their projects.

Lab Assistants . . .

. . . aid and advise struggling science students. Keeping the chemistry lab in complete order is the responsibility of the lab assistants John Huneke, Bucky Ignatius, Ralph Federle, and Steve Morris. Not only are they of great service to Mr. Baas, but they also help and guide confused chemistry students. Among their duties are filling lab bottles, measuring chemicals, and setting up experiments.

Projectionists

The projectionists, under the supervision of Mr. Brokamp, perform a service to our school. They run movie projectors in classrooms, set up equipment for films, and help care for the audio-visual facilities. They are M. Huneke, G. Wagner, D. Yorn, R. Lunsford, G. Borchelt, W. Wintz, M. Merkel, and B. King.

"The Sound of Music" Product of Providing half-time and pre-game entertainment for Batesville football games highlighted the fall activities of the band. Marching and performing in the Versailles Pumpkin show was the beginning of a busy schedule of precision drills and routines for the fifty-six piece band, led by drum majorette Roxanne Lightner and directed by Mr. Bartling. The group paraded in company front to the tunes of "Pocahontas," "Swing-A-Roo Polka," and

"Yankee Doodle." After football season, the group began concert music and refined playing in preparation for the Ripley County Music Festival and the district music contest. With the addition of several new instruments, including a set of kettle drums, the band had a full, harmonious sound. Such selections as "Azalea Trail," "With Freedom's Flag," and "Victory at Sea" scenerio set the mood for serious musicianship. Such light selections as "The Sound of Music" and "Trumpets Olé" were favorites of the band members. Special programs at Christmas and Easter, entertainment at student convocations, and participation in six local parades added to the agenda.

Band officers Susie Steinkamp, president, Roxanne Lightner, vice-president, Carol Poske, secretary, and Virginia Wilson, treasurer, assisted Mr. Bartling throughout the year. The majorettes were always busily engaged in perfecting routines to add color and variety to the band performances. An appearance on television was a new experience this year. The climax was the annual band concert in May. The fruits of one year's playing were presented to the public and were received with enthusiasm. At graduation ceremonies, the band played "Pomp and Circumstance" to conclude the final ritual of the year.

The high school choral groups have earned their outstanding reputations through various performances. In their royal blue robes, they add sparkle to any program. This year's agenda included performances before local organizations, school assemblies, Christmas and Easter festivities, and participation in the county music festival, district contests, and annual band concert. A highlight this year was singing on television's "School for Talent."

1962 "Graduate" Is the Book with a

For the first time in the history of yearbook publication in Batesville High School, the "Graduate" offers its readers a complete, full-year coverage of the events that occurred during the 1961-62 school year. In September of 1961, the student body voted to have a summer edition of the yearbook. Students realized that such an edition would mean sacrificing some of the fun of signing each other's book, but they foresaw the advantages of including spring sports, the prom, senior play, baccalaureate, and graduation exercises. Due to the foresight of the students, the "Graduate" could be the first yearbook to give a well-rounded picture of Batesville High School from September to May.

Graduate Staff Tours American Yearbook Company

Another first came to the "Graduate" staff: a tour of American Yearbook Company. This was the first year for the company to publish our yearbook. Escorted by one of the company's members Mr. Mike Ayers, Bev Spencer, Editor, Marilee Waltermann, Art Editor, Steve Morris, Don Werner, and Mr. Doles adviser, traveled by car to the yearbook plant where they were met by their consultant, Mrs. Mildred Graham. Mildred was their guide and companion while they visited the company. She corresponded with the "Graduate" staff throughout the year and served as a link between Batesville High School and American Yearbook Company. Mr. Doles and Bev always relied on Mildred to answer their thousands of questions about yearbook production.

One of the primary accomplishments at the plant was to design and select colors for the "Graduate" cover. Mildred helped the staff organize a ladder diagram which told what would appear on each page of the book. Then the group was ready to begin a thorough study of layouts and layout techniques.

At one of the conferences in the plant, the "Graduate" staff met Mr. Dave Ramber who gave them all the do's and don'ts on yearbook layout. He illustrated various styles of layout and discussed the use of layout aids such as outlining, tints, mounting boards, and reverse printing. The staff began to visualize the limitless extent to which they could develop their yearbook. They were kept busy jotting down notes of interest.

A tour of the company's plant gave the staff a glimpse of the careful processing and preparation that goes into each yearbook published by the company. They were amazed at the detailed work that was put into each page and the machinery that was used to organize and print copy. They saw each production step in operation and watched various yearbooks go to press.

Before leaving Hannibal, the group visited landmarks of Mark Twain's famous writings. They toured the homes of Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher and viewed the bronze statue of Tom and Huck on a hillside overlooking the Mighty Mississippi. One of the most interesting trips was to the Mark Twain Cave, where Tom and Huck roamed in Twain's novels.

New Look . . . Full-Year Coverage!

Although only four students went to Hannibal, many others were involved in the tasks of producing the "Graduate." The advertising and business section of the yearbook demanded the most time and work. Judy Robinson, advertising manager, organized an ad campaign which was carried out by Gerry Hane, Kindra Parmer, Ruth Thies, Janice Dickey, Mike Wernke, Linda Gibson, and Jerry Christopher. Circulation manager Linda Selke was in charge of a subscription campaign.

She and her committee directed a clever skit which induced many students to buy subscriptions. Chuck Walke provided the copy for all sports coverages. Marilee Waltermann worked with pen and ink, drawing the art work for the annual. Many other students also contributed their typing ability when business letters had to be typed. There was never a dull moment in the production of the 1962 "Graduate."

Spanish Club Sends Students to Mexico

The Spanish Club, under direction of Mr. Charles Schlereth, spends the school year busily engaged in a series of projects to raise funds for a yearly trip to Mexico. The club's primary purpose is to enable a group of Spanish students to visit Mexico on an educational basis. It is also designed to give the students a fuller picture of the Mexican culture and way of life. Among the money-making endeavors this year was a donkey basketball game held in the local gymnasium. The gym was filled nearly to capacity for the event. Club members sold concessions during the game halftime. Other projects included selling tickets to the drive-in and the movie theatre. Christmas vacation was highlighted by a semi-formal dance co-sponsored by the Spanish Club and the B-Men. After a year of working and planning, these students were chosen to go on the trip: Bev Spencer, Linda Gibson, Judy Arnholt, John Huneke, and Richard Erxleben.

They and Mr. Schlereth left on May 28th to tour Mexico. Most of their time was spent in picturesque Mexico City. While visiting the country, they had many opportunities to practice speaking Spanish with the Mexicans.

Broadcast Staff . . .

Keeps students informed on B.H.S. activities. The goal of the Broadcast staff is to provide each subscriber with up-to-date news of school and extracurricular activities as well as interesting features and editorials. The Broadcast is published eight times a year and is written and edited by the students. Roxanne Lightner, editor, assistant editors Linda Selke and Carol Poske, and business manager Bev Spencer worked with the sponsor Mrs. Day this year to bring to the students reflections of the school year through the eyes of the Broadcast.

Batesville High School's D.C.E. is a vocational program which provides a cooperative venture between the school and the community. It is designed to combine maximum efficiency with broad opportunity in preparing boys, 16 years of age or older, for occupational life.

The student's work experience and on-the-job training are coordinated with related study for a well-balanced occupational preparation.

D.C.E. gives a boy the opportunity to select an occupation which matches his interests and abilities. He can actually work with the tools of his chosen trade. It also assists the employer in selecting better qualified personnel.

Students Today . . . Teachers Tomorrow

The purpose of Future Teachers is to explore the field of teaching from a student's standpoint and to learn the values of teaching. During the year, the members view films about teaching, such as "A Desk for Billie." They interview faculty members and talk to student teachers. Through these talks and interviews, they can become well-acquainted with the college training required for teaching, colleges which specialize in training teachers, and honest opinions from experienced teachers concerning the rewards of a teaching career. One of their chief services during the school year is to entertain children at the monthly P.T.A. meetings. Sponsor of the organization is Mr. Robert Brokamp. Officers are Susie Steinkamp, president, Sondra Lakamp, secretary, and Linda Selke, treasurer.

Exploratory Teaching . . .

program is designed to give students an opportunity to observe actual classroom activity and to try their skill at teaching. The exploratory teaching course is a one-year study in which students learn teaching methods and are given a chance to try teaching an elementary class. Students are required to keep a daily log on activities and are often called on to grade papers and compose tests.

This Is Our Goal . . .

Initiation

Freshman initiation was a changed tradition this year. Instead of the usual lipsticked faces, onions around the neck, pungence of perfume and hair tonic, initiation became a test of strength and skill between the freshmen and the seniors. During the first two months of school, the freshmen were required to wear blue and white beanies. On Homecoming day, the seniors and freshmen matched wits on the football field where they opposed each other in a series of relays, sack races, and rope pulling contests. Both classes won some events, but in the end the seniors had accumulated the most points and were named the victors.

Administration and Faculty

School Board

An efficient school system doesn't happen accidentally. Effective management demands civic-minded people who are willing to explore the unlimited horizons in the educational field. The members of the Batesville School Board are such people. These private citizens devote much time to approving bills, inspecting buildings, budgeting finances, and solving the many problems which arise in our modern system. Little recognition is given to the school board for its accomplishments, but the students are well aware of its untiring efforts.

Principal . . . John H. Frushour

addresses the Seniors:

"I would remind you that education is a continuous process, and those who would stop learning when they leave school are really taking a step backward. It follows then that you will continue to learn in various ways even after your formal education is completed. Education does not end at graduation from high school or college. It is a never ending process.

Keep up with your reading of good literature and, through your reading, continue to develop a keen interest in the world in which you live. Try to find opportunities to be of real service to your fellowmen. Affiliate yourselves with these institutions and people that have for their purpose the making of a better world.

Finally, lasting success comes to him who can lose himself in the interests of others. It is my wish that you may find such success."

Our Administrators Lay Educational

Guidance Counselor . . . Frank Setear

Every high school student is familiar with our guidance counselor, Mr. Setear. Each student faces many problems as he prepares for the future. Freshmen must decide what they want to study in high school and must choose their field of study: academic, business, or vocational. Sophomores must choose elective subjects. Juniors and Seniors are looking for answers to questions about college and careers. All students need guidance in planning their education. To give them this guidance is the work of Mr. Setear. He administers tests, has individual conferences with students and parents, and offers informations about Indiana colleges and various occupations. His office is always open to the perplexed student.

Superintendent . . . Charles I. Swain

gives worthy advice to the Seniors:

"As graduates of Batesville High School you have completed a major step in your educational life. Some will enroll in colleges and universities; some will continue their education by attending technical and trade schools; others will discontinue their formal education. We sincerely hope that each will continue to be receptive to new ideas and be open-minded to changes necessary to keep abreast of ever expanding technical advancements.

You have had opportunities to gain much from the basic education provided in Batesville High School. Some have profited much--others have not! Each graduate must answer to himself for the degree of success achieved.

You are now entering a competitive world where each is judged upon his ability to produce a good commodity and improve the community in which he resides. Every citizen has a moral obligation to make this world a better place than when he entered it. Are you prepared to meet your responsibility? We believe you are. Best wishes in all your future endeavors."

Foundations for Growth.

Secretaries . . . demonstrate versatility in office management.

Since the superintendent and principal are always so busy, they must rely on the office personnel to fulfill many of their tasks. Assisting with the details of managing a school such as ours requires knowledge of business procedures, patience, and courtesy. Our efficient secretaries meet all these requirements. Keeping records, handling school funds, taking attendance, typing correspondence, and completing transcripts are a few of the many duties for which they are responsible. Students realize that the smoothly run offices of our principal and superintendent are partially due to the proficiency and dependability of the secretaries.

English Makes Self-Expression Simple

Courses in English can cure almost anything--stage fright, dangling modifiers, limited vocabulary, and faulty sentence structure. The English department in our school is striving for an improved program that will make its graduates capable of succeeding in all walks of life through the use of correctly-written and fluently-spoken English. Mary Jane Suhre, who received her B.A. degree in English from Ursuline College, is teaching a new subject this year--developmental reading. Her personal interest in building faster, more comprehensive readers is the reason for the remarkable progress the students are making in reading. Mary Heim, a new member of the faculty, graduated from Georgetown with a B.A. degree in English. She teaches freshman English and is freshman class sponsor. Teaching sophomore English is Sue Day, another new faculty member and graduate of Indiana University. She is the sponsor of the high school newspaper, the Broadcast. John Bogenschutz, a graduate of St. Paul Seminary, has a B.A. degree in Philosophy. He is the teacher of senior English, enjoys music and bowling, and feels that our school is "Morally Solid."

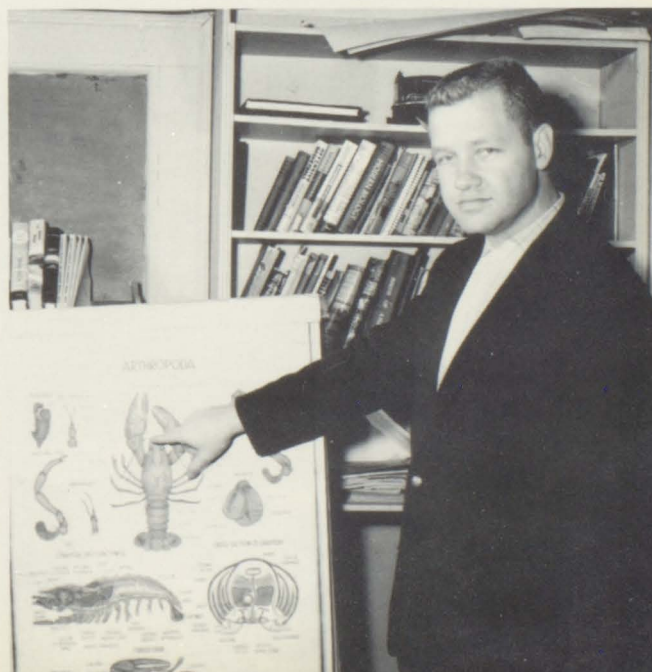

Mr. Milton Baas, a native of Batesville, teaches chemistry and mathematics. He received his B.A. degree from Hanover College and is working on his Master's degree at Purdue University. In addition to classroom activities, Mr. Baas is head coach of the football team, and sponsor of the Science Club and B-Men organization. He has aroused a great deal of interest in science among the grade school students by promoting an annual Science Fair in which many of the students display scientific research material and experiments.

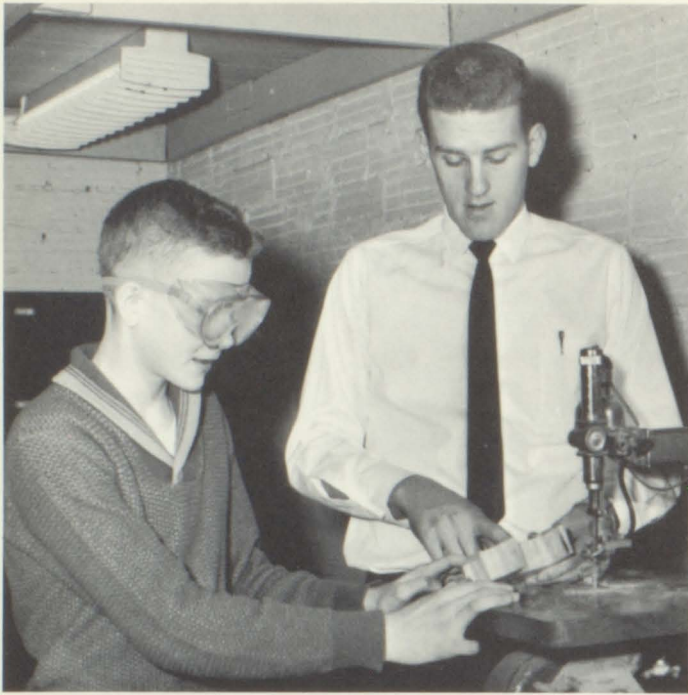

From complex calculations used in guided missile operations to the daily application of the clerk, housewife, businessman, and engineer, mathematics play a leading role in our modern world. It promotes clear thinking and effective reasoning. Mr. Roy Gardner, a member of the Batesville teaching staff for nineteen years, is head of the mathematics department. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Ball State Teachers' College. Among his outside interests are Senior class sponsor, coach of the golf team, and official at Big Ten sports events. He enjoys golfing as a hobby.

Science Offers Careers of Challenge

In the science laboratories students study the organic and the inorganic, from the smallest unit of matter known, the atom, to the most complex of all living things, the human body. Teaching biology to the Sophomores is the work of Mr. Richard Lemen. He received his B.S. degree from Purdue University and is now working on his Master's degree from Indiana University in the field of education. Outside of class, he is kept busy as head coach of the track team, assistant coach of football and of the B-team and freshman team in basketball. He is sponsor of the Hi-Y organization.

Well-Educated Youth

Industrial Arts increase vocational opportunities for boys. In the shop, they can develop skill in working with wood and metals which may some day become part of their occupations. Mr. Vincent Ruhe, a graduate of Indiana State Teachers' College, holds a B.S. degree. He is supervisor of the machine shop and teaches industrial arts to the grade school and high school boys. He is a sponsor of the Sophomore class. Outside of school, he enjoys reading and hunting as hobbies.

Twelve years of teaching experience in B.H.S. have made Mr. Robert Brokamp one of our most capable faculty members. He received his M.A. degree from Ball State Teachers' College and teaches social studies to the Junior and Senior classmen. During the school year, students associate him with "Reading Notes," educational films, and "Current Events." However, from June to September he is seen in quite a different atmosphere, serving as manager of the local Memorial pool. He is the sponsor of Future Teachers and the Batesville chapter of the National Honor Society; supervises the exploratory teaching program; and is the audio-visual co-ordinator for the high school.

Mechanical drawing aims to teach students creativity, neatness, and visualization of design. Teaching mechanical drawing is one of the jobs of Mr. Don Carmichael. He received his M.S. degree from Purdue University. Another job of his is supervising the Diversified Cooperative Education program in the high school. In the past two years, he has established in our school one of the best D.C.E. programs in the state of Indiana. As D.C.E. co-ordinator and sponsor of the D.C.E. Club, he has worked with the boys to produce responsible and dependable employees in our community. Mr. Carmichael is also Junior class sponsor.

Today Will Lead

A graduate of Butler University, Mr. Richard Doles holds a B.S. degree in Business. He teaches typing, bookkeeping, and speech. Among his outside interests are advising the yearbook staff and teaching an adult typing class. He has served as director of the class plays. One of his greatest accomplishments in Batesville is his work in establishing a teen center. He has recently been initiated into Phi Delta Kappa, men's national education fraternity. While working on his Master's degree, Mr. Doles has become well-acquainted with the students of BHS through his study of the relationship between intelligence and level of vocational aspiration. After leaving Batesville High School, Mr. Doles will participate in a one-year study of guidance and counseling at the University of Illinois, under provisions of the National Defense program.

Teaching home economics lies in the hands of Miss Marie Green, who has studied music at three colleges. She has earned her M.A. degree in music from Columbia University. Miss Green teaches girls the fundamental skills of homemaking: home management, foods, and clothing. In addition to teaching, she sponsors the Future Homemakers organization and is co-sponsor of Future Nurses. Recently, she has taught an adult cooking class composed of several men of our community. It is amazing that the men can cook delicate dishes with the skill of a true chef. Miss Green enjoys sewing, knitting, and singing. She is choir director of a local congregational choir and often sings for special events. She feels our school has "a very congenial faculty and students."

Our librarian Mrs. John graduated from Ball State with a B.S. degree. She teaches shorthand in addition to keeping the school library ship-shape. Due to her careful planning and organization, she has added many good books to our library and has made definite improvements in arrangement of the library. Each month she prepares a colorful bulletin board showing the latest in good literature. Mrs. John's chief interests outside of school are her family, sewing, and singing. She makes this comment about B.H.S.: "Just as it is everywhere, our school is overcrowded. We need more space to expand our interests."

America Tomorrow.

Art and Music Stimulate

The music department, under the direction of Mr. Sylvester Bartling, offers a source of enjoyment to the many students who participate in the choir, choral clubs, and band. Mr. Bartling, a teacher at Batesville schools for many years, has a Masters' degree in Music from Indiana University. He teaches grades one through twelve and is director of the Junior and High School Band and the high school choruses. Through the years he has led these groups to many first divisions at regional and state music contests. Mr. Bartling is the sponsor of Chant Ensemble. He is always busy working out drills and routines for the football and basketball games. In the spring he prepares the band and choral groups for the Band Concert. Both in and out of school, Mr. Bartling devotes his time to musical education of Batesville youth.

Mr. Charles Schlereth, a graduate of Mexico City College, has a B.A. degree in English. He has attended a number of colleges studying foreign languages, including Knox, Wabash, and Indiana University. In our school, he teaches English and Spanish. He is sponsor of the Spanish Club and has served as advisor for the Broadcast staff. His favorite pastimes are listening to music from stage plays, keeping up on the sports scene, and playing cards. He likes to climb pyramids and watch bullfights. His interest in these activities is a result of the years he spent living in Mexico City.

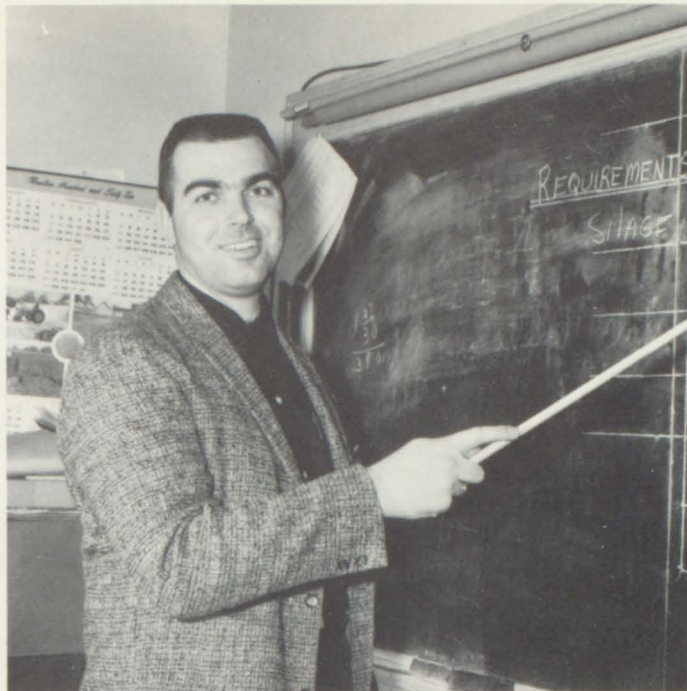

Mrs. Jean Fisher is the high school art teacher. She has a B.S. degree in Art from Ball State College. Under her direction, the art department offers an excellent program in self-expression to the interested student. The purpose of art is not to make artists of all students, but to develop the power of observation and free expression of ideas. Mrs. Fisher's outside interests include sponsoring the Junior class and preparing stage decorations for class plays. She works with the prom committees in planning art work for the proms.

Cultural Interests.

Mr. Louis Ferringer, a graduate of Purdue University, is the vocational agriculture teacher. He received his B.S. degree in vocational agriculture and science and is now working on his Master's degree. Due to his interest in the boys of our farming community, our school has one of the most highly-rated Future Farmers organizations in Indiana. Mr. Ferringer, as sponsor of the Future Farmers of B.H.S., has promoted a full-range program of vocational agriculture for high school boys. He devotes much of his time to taking boys on judging trips.

Mrs. Sally Walke, who received her B.S. degree in Education at U.C., has taught in the Batesville schools for six years. She teaches physical education to grades one through ten and health to grades seven through ten. At noon hour one can usually find her out of the playground, directing noon sports. She is the sponsor of G.A.A. and Pep Club. Cheerleaders are familiar with her ability to organize yells. Each year she takes the cheerleaders to a cheering clinic where they learn the latest yells and stunts. Her favorite pastime is bowling. Mrs. Walke, an alumna of B.H.S., believes that for its size, Batesville High is one of the best schools.

Teaching physical education and health to high school boys is one of the jobs of Mr. Paul Wernke. He received his B.S. degree in physical education from Florida State. Most of the boys know him as "Coach." He is the school athletic director, head basketball coach, and has charge of the varsity team. He also trains the baseball team and is co-sponsor of the B-Men organization. He often "risks his life" instructing the drivers' education classes. "As you know" is his most common expression.

These behind-the-scene workers give unselfishly of their time and efforts to provide for our comforts. It requires the services of many to care for the needs and well-being of all who are part of our school system. Our efficient cooks never fail us at lunchtime. No matter what the weather, our cheerful bus drivers are on duty to transport us to and from school. Our tireless custodians, often working during school vacations, keep our halls and rooms spotless and pleasant.

ADVERTISING

Advertising--the challenge of creating a better relationship between Batesville businessmen and the student body. This challenge is primary in the minds of the GRADUATE staff when we begin the campaign for advertisements. High school students compose a large percentage of the patronage of Batesville merchants, and the advertising in this book constantly reminds our readers of those who are interested in our school and support it. Without the generous assistance of business organizations and boosters, production of the 1962 GRADUATE would be financially impossible.
